Haunt Horror Lovecraft Corben Richard

Richard Corben has a great deal of experience in the world of horror comics; here he selected the works he adapted and provided the art. The very attractive cover has some color, but otherwise Mr. Corben selected gray tones, which worked well enough in the old Creely and Eerie, and worked well enough for me here.

Richard Corben, with some plot and script assistance from Richard Margopoulos, adapts and illustrates poems and short stories by Edgar Allen Poe and H. P. Lovecraft. This volume also includes the source material. Haunt of Horror opens with a truly awful prose rendition of "The Raven." Many of Poe's other poems are retold here, and nearly as badly.

Horror-comics legend Richard Corben (Creepy, Eerie) and longtime collaborator Rich Margopoulos leave no gravestone unturned as they offer up wicked spins on the classic poems of Edgar Allan Poe. Each adaptation is hauntingly rendered in black and white with gray tones as only Corben can do

Haunt Of Horror: Edgar Allan Poe by Richard Corben

Corben's black and white artwork is one of Haunt of Horror's few pluses. He clearly has some stylistic range (although a few of his cartoonier pieces are questionable choices), and he does a fine job with light and shadow, allowing him to set tone and mood appropriately in spite of the literary travesty taking place all around.
